

Way Clear For Cuba Settlement

Blockade Lifted;
Bombers Leaving

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — United Nations delegates hailed today concessions by the United States and the Soviet Union on two main friction points over Cuba as a big step out of the crisis.

Diplomats predicted that long negotiations lay ahead before a final settlement is reached. But most felt the talks could proceed more smoothly since Premier Khrushchev has promised to pull about 30 jet bombers out of Cuba and President Kennedy countered by ordering the naval arms blockade lifted.

Kennedy stressed in his press conference Tuesday night that there still is no on-site UN inspection to make sure the Soviet Union is living up to its side of the bargain.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has agreed to let the bombers be removed from his country but stressed again his opposition to inspection on Cuban soil and threatened again to shoot down U.S. planes flying over Cuba on reconnaissance missions.

FIRE ON PLANE

Cuban anti-aircraft batteries fired Tuesday on a low-flying twin-engined plane over the Havana suburb of Miramar.

The plane, presumed to be a U.S. Navy Neptune patrol plane, returned the fire briefly.

There were no reports that anyone aboard the plane or on the ground was hit. The plane flew off without apparent damage.

Castro's giving up the bombers was seen by UN delegates as a triumph for Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan. He has spent nearly three weeks in Havana presumably trying to persuade the Cuban leader to go along with Khrushchev's pledge to get all effective weapons out of Cuba under UN surveillance.

Diplomats here noted that Castro's agreement to let the bombers go was accompanied by reports that Mikoyan had signed a new three-year economic aid pact with Cuba.

Kennedy emphasized at his press conference Tuesday night that he has no intention of invading Cuba. But he said he couldn't guarantee peace in the Caribbean until other conditions for a crisis settlement, including United Nations inspection of the island, are met.

Until arrangements are made to verify the withdrawal of Russian missiles and planes,

VIOLENT ERUPTION

MOSCOW (AP) — Klyuchevskaya volcano, a 15,913-foot crater in northeast Siberia, has exploded in its most violent eruption in 17 years, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today. Other volcanoes on the Kamchatka Peninsula also have become active, the agency said.

Soviet Cancels Combat Alert

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today cancelled the state of combat readiness it proclaimed for its armed forces because of the Cuban crisis.

Moscow radio said the Soviet council of ministers had ordered Defence Minister Rodion Malinovsky to return his forces to normal status because the United States had lifted its arms blockade of Cuba.

The order cancelled one issued Oct. 23, at the height of the Cuban crisis. At that time the defence ministry cancelled its Oct. 23, Cretchko's order went to the armed forces of the east European Communist nations which with the Soviet Union form the Warsaw pact alliance, the Communist counterpart of NATO.

'Another Economic Crisis If We're Defeated Now'

By DON HANRIGHT

Ottawa (CP) — Finance Minister Nowlan expressed a fear Tuesday night that any Canadian general election in the immediate future might cause "something" to happen to the country's financial position.

He said he is not sure what that something might be.

But he told the Commons that if earlier opposition attempts to unseat the minority Progressive Conservative government had succeeded, the reaction on the Canadian dollar and the foreign exchange reserves would have made "the storm of last June look like a summer shower."

Mr. Nowlan was referring to the June exchange crisis which led the government on June 24—six days after the last general election—to impose emergency financial measures by order-in-council, when Parliament was not in session.

VIOLENT RIGHTS

The Liberal and New Democratic opposition claims that the government's subsequent failure to seek parliamentary approval for import surcharges violates the age-old right of Parliament—and Parliament alone—to impose taxes.

Tuesday, the Liberals tried for a second time to force the government to seek parliamentary approval for the surcharges before the House could pass a government tariff bill by Conservative MPs.

His remark came after all-party agreement to temporarily postpone the debate on the surcharges until the Commons finished detailed study—and final passage—of amendments to the Farm Credit Act.

This was to occur in quick fashion after the night sitting began at 8 p.m. But an hour later, when both NDP and Conservative MPs still were debating the Farm Credit Act.

He moved that the committee of the whole house—as then it was—should rise. This would have cut off the farm credit debate and sent the House back to business on Mr. Pickersgill's motion.

$1,141 Send-Off for Campaign

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova came to Victoria this week to tug at some heart strings and loosen some purse strings.

She succeeded.

The annual Times appeal is for the support of USC projects.

It started officially at the meeting Tuesday night in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Kirk Hall, although a few contributions had been received earlier.

TOTAL OF $1,141

Counting them and the silver, dollar bills and cheques in the collection plate Tuesday night, the appeal already totals $1,141.

'Ready to Work' Boom Man Claims

PORT ALBERNI

Striking boom men who idled 500 fellow workers at Sopasaw sawmills last summer would have gone back to work without a company promise to switch charge hands, Magistrate W. E. MacLeod was told today.

Forty-seven boom men are charged with striking the giant

MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Company's Somass division between Aug. 27 and Sept. 5, contrary to the Labor Relations Act.

They are being tried in the cramped confines of the court where their union, Local 185 of International Woodworkers of America and its president Walter Allen, also faced charges under the same act.

'PRESSURE' FROM RUSSIA BEHIND CHINA PEACE MOVE?

BY DENNIS NEEDL

LONDON (AP)—Red China's surprise cease-fire move in the border conflict with India was regarded with deep suspicion by diplomatic sources in London.

It indicated, said observers, that China's immediate military objective was the limited one of permanently securing the disputed region of North Ladakh in Kashmir.

Through this strategic area runs the new Chinese road linking Sinkiang and Tibet. It was occupied in 1957 and 1958 under the terms of the cease-fire offer China is not giving it.

At the same time it was felt the Soviet Union may have applied strong pressure on Peking to stop the fighting.

NEEDS RUSSIA

However, loudly China may have thundered against Soviet "apeasers" after the Cuban revolution, it is pointed out that China still relies on Russia for much technical and industrial help.

The aggression against India is known to have embarrassed the Kremlin. The Indian government was urgently pressing Khrushchev for promised MIG fighters. He could not have avoided a decision much longer.

Had he refused help to India, Russia's image in the eyes of the uncommitted nations would have been greatly tarnished.

Now they can withdraw and negotiate from a position of strength and with the added advantage of having shown "moderation" at a time when India was at their mercy.

LISBON (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Nogueira today denounced a United Nations report on the Portuguese territory of Angola as "hostile, tendentious and not based on facts."

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

NOVEMBER 21

The government has been able to provide temporary employment for those just arriving in the colony. One hundred and sixty of the passengers who landed here on the Sillistria from England have been employed by the Surveyor General. Some of these have been engaged by the lands and works department and others have found work from contractors who are building roads for the government.

Mrs. Bell, at one time a woman of respect and influence in the city, was arrested by officer DeCecil early this morning for being drunk and disorderly. She went into the Island Hotel begging for liquor and, although refused at that establishment, got some elsewhere and crawled back to the front of the hotel where she lay prostrate on the sidewalk. A placard bearing the sign, "For Sale—Cheap," was attached to her when officer DeCecil placed her in a hand cart and carried her off.

The chain gang started dumping earth into the harbor in front of the Government Buildings today.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

There's a little mystery about the launching of the Toll Authority's new ferry Queen of Saanich on Nov. 28.

Name of the sponsor (the person who smashes the champagne bottle against the hull) was kept a secret until today, when invitations were sent out from the builders, Victoria Machinery Depot.

The invitation says it is Mrs. John Tisdale, wife of the Socred MLA for Saanich.

But wrapped around the formal card is a flimsy sheet which says: "Mrs. Stanley Murphy, wife of the Reeve of Saanich, will be a Special Guest on this occasion."

Why? Was it an after-thought?

Many people had expected Mrs. Murphy would do the honors. Mrs. Percy Seurrah launched the government ferry City of Victoria when her husband was mayor.

Mrs. Murphy's husband, by the way, is strongly tipped as the New Democratic Party candidate for Saanich in the next provincial election—he would be trying to unseat Mr. Tisdale.

A Toll Authority spokesman said Premier Bennett had picked Mrs. T., and sent a message to this effect from New York. He said he expected the premier would "elucidate when he returns."

He added that in his opinion protocol demands that only the name of the sponsor can appear on the invitation and that's why there was a separate enclosure about Mrs. Murphy.

Several youthful hearts are beating a little quicker these days as this year's crop of debutantes polish up their social graces in preparation for their debut at the "Deb Ball."

Most of the heart flutters are due to excitement—but in the case of at least one younger brother, cause can be marked down as righteous indignation.

Coming home from high school, he greeted his starry-eyed sister with: "Boy, you sure caused me a lot of trouble today! The kids all gave me heck for having a debutante sister."

Victoria's baritone, Jock Dunbar, is well on his way to making a singing career in his native Scotland. Latest news received by Miss E. S. McGillivray (known as "Auntie Beth" to the Dunbar children) is that Jock started a two-week singing engagement in the well-known Gaiety Theatre at Ayr on Monday.

He will make his Scottish television debut on New Year's Eve when he will be interviewed by Jimmie Logan, who recently visited Victoria on tour with the White Heather Company.

Heard from a local radio station: "Our next feature will be people who made history at half past 12 today!"

Watch your punctuation, boys.

An intimate study of Mungo Martin—great chieftain of Indian art on this coast—stands out among the works of Miss Carey now on display at the Cypress Art Gallery, 618 Fort Street.

Miss Carey has interpreted the chief in a pastel drawing and makes him look much more youthful than he was—because "that is the way I saw him."

She visited Mungo during his last days at St. Joseph's Hospital, but drew from memory of his more vigorous days.

One of Miss Carey's pictures—what she calls a primitive impression of a farmhouse—has been bought by one of her own pupils, Willard Holmes, of 1603 Rockland Avenue.

"His work is so promising I have an idea I shall be buying his paintings before long," she said.

The name of Thomas A. Edison is usually associated with the phonograph. But a quotation hung in the office of Victoria naturopath Ronald Holtom reveals his interest in the medical profession. It reads:

"The doctor of the future will give no medicine . . . but will interest his patients in the care of the human frame, in diet and in the cause and prevention of disease."—Edison.

Jerry Gosley and members of his Smile Show entertained patients from the Veterans' Hospital, their families and friends at the Red Cross Lodge, Richmond Road, last week in honor of the lodge's 15th anniversary.

Rounding out the show were Bill and Dorothy Hosie, Marilyn Sommers, Ken Pearkes and Walter Rothe.

Bill Leaman, who has been a patient in the Veterans' Hospital for 11 years, cut a big birthday cake and thanked the visiting artists.

Returning from Rainbow Sea Cadets, Robert Street, Tuesday night, we ran out of gas on a lonely lane and it looked as if we'd have a long walk.

But a good samaritan from Vancouver came to our aid. "My boy used to be in Sea Cadets," he said. "Hop in—I'll drive you to a gas station."

He drove us back, too!

Bookings for the traditional Old English Christmas at Empress Hotel are coming in fast, says Cyril Chapman, manager.

"As usual, we are getting most of our custom from California, Oregon and Washington," he said, "but there will be a fair number of guests from eastern Canada and the eastern States as well."

More than $1,500,000 was spent by tourists across Canada during 1961, according to the Canadian Tourist Association.

Of this total, $375,000 went to retail stores; $330,000 to restaurants, and $255,000 to motels and resorts.

"These figures prove the immense value of the tourist industry to every Canadian citizen," says Victoria hotelier Sam Lane.

'Book Scaring People From Eating Salads'

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. E. Y. Spencer, director of the Federal Agricultural Research Institute here, said Tuesday Rachel Carson's recently published book Silent Spring has created entirely unjustified fears about the effects of chemicals used for insect control on humans.

The book has resulted in fears which have prevented some persons from eating an ordinary salad, he said. The overall impression created by the book was "definitely exaggerated" and could have harmful effects.

The book says the insecticides are poisonous, not only to insects, but to birds, fish, earth which supplies food and inevitably man himself.

The book might prompt such restrictive measures that use of insecticides might become virtually ineffective, Dr. Spencer said. Some crops, particularly onions and carrots, cannot be grown free of insects without the use of insecticides.

He said insecticides "used under proper control and with careful handling . . . are more beneficial than harmful. Without insecticides, we would be prey to famine and insect invasions."

He added that "all insecticides are safe when used in reasonable concentration. Most are hazardous if not."

Miss Carson, a United States biologist and author, also wrote the best-selling The Sea Around Us.

Man Jailed 10 Years For Abortions

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER—Richard John Ford, 63, was sentenced to 10 years Tuesday after he admitted procuring abortions for an 18-year-old girl and a 28-year-old woman.

Magistrate Gordon W. Scott also imposed a two-year concurrent sentence on a charge of attempting to procure an abortion for policewoman Lea Halines.

Prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Ford was convicted of manslaughter, reduced from murder, in 1954, in the death of a woman as the result of an abortion.

The prosecutor said the abortion method that caused the death of the woman eight years ago was similar to the method Ford used Oct. 12-13.

The woman, Mr. McMorran said, was admitted to hospital with only a 50 per cent chance of survival after the motel room operation Oct. 13. "Fortunately she did not die."

TEENAGE TERROR

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rock-throwing teenagers are terrorizing elderly residents of three South Vancouver homes. Police said rocks, tomatoes, pieces of wood, small stones and even a 13-foot ladder have been hurled at front doors on different occasions. Police are investigating.

DIES IN AVALANCHE

SMITHERS—The body of Harry Joseph Flynn, 51, of Horsefly, was found crushed and his small cabin smashed by tons of snow after an avalanche hit his tiny camp at the top of Hudson's Bay Glacier, four miles north of Smithers.

RCMP at Smithers said Flynn was doing mining exploration work with other employees of a potash mining company. Flynn had been sleeping at the small camp to tend a water pump while other workers stayed half a mile away.

The miners went to Flynn's camp Monday and found parts of his cabin sticking through the snow some distance from where it should be. They searched unsuccessfully for Flynn until they had to leave the site in fear of other slides.

His body was found Tuesday buried under six feet of snow in the middle of the wreckage of the cabin. The cabin was situated on Hudson's Bay Mountain, about 2,500 feet from the top.

WIFE ACQUITTED

VANCOUVER—A weeping woman kissed her counsel and a crown witness Tuesday after the jury returned a directed verdict of not guilty of capital murder.

Mrs. Mary Elsie Pearce, 55, had been charged with the Sept. 7 butcher knife slaying of her husband, Percy George Pearce, 57.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes directed the jury to return the verdict. He said the crown's evidence was entirely circumstantial and failed to fall within the degree of guilt required in circumstantial evidence.

CLEANUP COSTLY

VANCOUVER (CP)—The estimated cost of cleaning up Stanley park after last month's typhoon Frieda has risen to $160,000. Park board superintendent Stuart Lefebvre said the new estimate exceeds the $85,000 originally anticipated because the full extent of the damage wasn't realized.

CHIROPRACTOR ANSWERS

VANCOUVER—The president of the Canadian Chiropractic Association said Tuesday doctors are attempting to discredit Canada's 1,200 chiropractors.

Wilfred O. Morgan said the desire of doctors to put chiropractors out of business is motivated by their fear of competition.

It was not motivated by a wish to provide better service to the public.

Mr. Morgan was speaking at a session of a royal commission investigating British Columbia's Workmen's Compensation Act.

He said a brief submitted by Dr. A. C. Walsh to the commission Nov. 9 was part of an all-out campaign to wipe out chiropractors in Canada.

Sons Plan Move

HOPE, B.C. (CP) — Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, forced by the weather from one campsite to another that is far better, made plans Tuesday to move to Agassiz.

A spokesman said the decision to move into Kent municipality, which contains Agassiz and the nearby mountain federal prison for Freedomites, was made despite the fact that it may mean trouble.

The way was cleared for the Freedomites to continue the trek that started Sept. 2 when a British Columbia Supreme Court justice said Monday a bylaw restraining the sect from entering Kent infringed on the rights of parliament.

Mrs. Fanny Storgoff, spokesman for the trekkers, said two car loads of sect members will be sent to Kent shortly to scout for a place to locate the camp.

She did not know when the move by the entire group would be made. "Everything is God's will."

The only trouble now is that there is a camping bylaw there... 10 people to an acre. They want cemented foundations but we have the tents so maybe we shall have a fight again.

Meanwhile, Paul Scherele, village chairman of Hope, said some arrangements for the Freedomites will have to be made by the senior governments.

MARS-BOUND

Spacecraft 4 Million Miles Away

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet space ship speeding towards Mars will come close enough to take pictures, radio them back to earth and then continue its flight as an artificial planet, the news agency Tass said today.

The spaceship, launched Nov. 1 on its seven-month journey and now 4,000,000 miles from earth, was reported travelling according to schedule. The announcement did not say by how much it would miss Mars.

The route being taken was described as hazardous—"traveling through uncharted reaches of the universe where anything may happen, for instance possible collisions with meteorites."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The following report on the progress of Mariner II was released today by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Mariner II, launched by the U.S. Aug. 27, is expected to pass within 20,000 miles of Venus Dec. 14.

Mariner early today: Distance from the earth: 20,282,702 miles; distance from Venus: 7,449,065 miles. Radio signal: good.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1962

On the Tightrope

MR. LOUIS RASMINSKY, THE able governor of the Bank of Canada, seems to be gingerly testing the strength of the Canadian dollar.

Recently it has tended to be a little too strong, rising marginally over its fixed rate of 92½ United States cents. Canada's reserves of gold and hard currency have increased dramatically. For the time being the exchange crisis of last June has been quickly solved.

But Mr. Rasmussen is under no illusions about the permanence of this solution, as his statements show. He knows that the reserves have increased not through the normal transactions of international trade, not through any large growth of Canadian exports but solely because investment money has poured back into Canada after its panic flight last June. He knows that the tide can be reversed again overnight if foreign investors take fright.

That, however, is not the worst aspect of Canada's situation. More serious in the long run is the fact that all the investment money coming to Canada represents increased debts owed to foreigners, mostly Americans.

Actually the recent strength of the Canadian dollar is due for the most part to heavy borrowings in the United States by various Canadian governments, including that of British Columbia. These borrowings simply mean that Americans are buying Canadian dollars, thus raising their price by the law of supply and demand. And the dollars can be sold again at any time, reducing the price.

In any case, we are still piling up foreign debt which must be repaid some day. Meanwhile we must find United States dollars with which to pay interest of the debt.

This is no solution of our basic exchange problem. It is nothing but a temporary stop-gap.

Moreover, in many cases, apart from the sale of government bonds in the United States, inflowing American dollars represent only further sales of our basic resources to foreigners, who own a frightening amount of them already.

Putting Our House In Order

IN THE SUBMISSION OF THE Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities to the federal government there is a significant reference to the almost universal plight of cities today.

The mayors point out: "The great accumulation of waste, inefficiency and obsolescence—the largest piece of unfinished business in the application of modern management and technology to man's needs—is in the physical facilities of our cities and towns."

That is an aspect of our times that is at last becoming recognized by the people of Victoria. Of necessity they are becoming aware that much must be done to fit the city for modern living.

Individual houses have been modernized; industrial and commercial premises are given the latest aids to efficient service and visual attraction. Yet the community as a whole—the home and the working place of the population as a unit—has been the last to receive twentieth century advantages.

Tribute to Mrs. Roosevelt

IN THIS SEASON OF GREAT decisions, President Kennedy has found time and inclination for a gesture which will gratify a large part of the human family.

As a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, he has appointed special committee to promote the major interests to which the former First Lady devoted so much of her life.

Under the chairmanship of Mr. Adlai Stevenson, whom Mrs. Roose-

It is in the light of all these circumstances that Mr. Rasmussen's latest reduction in the central bank rate from 5 to 4 per cent must be viewed.

On the one hand, the Bank of Canada has given the signal for somewhat easier money to stimulate investment by Canadians. This it feels able to do because the reserve situation has improved and the Canadian dollar is stronger than it was a few months ago.

On the other hand, generally lower interest rates will tend to discourage Americans from placing money in Canadian securities because their earnings will be less than they were in the past.

Thus between the demands of Canadian business for lower interest rates and the need of attracting foreign money Mr. Rasmussen is walking a very narrow tightrope and walking it with skill.

It will be said by some that he reduced the bank rate simply to serve the political purposes of a desperate government which must placate the Social Credit Party by appearing to accept its advice.

The Liberal Party says Mr. Rasmussen has made a good beginning but no more, that so-called "tight money" must be further loosened. But the Liberal Party does not seem to realize that Mr. Rasmussen cannot go much further now without endangering the currency reserves and the value of the Canadian dollar.

Perhaps the Liberal Party does not care if the dollar drops well below its pegged price of 92½ American cents. If so, the Liberal Party should make its position clear. This it has not done. Its attack on "tight money" begins to sound more and more like a political slogan of little meaning.

In these political manoeuvres on all sides Mr. Rasmussen, we believe, is concerned solely with his duty, which is to manage the monetary system for the nation's welfare. He need expect no help from the politicians on any side. For their overriding interest is not the management of money but victory in an election.

Now the gap here is being made up. Underground wiring, the creation of specialized and attractive precincts, the provision of proper parking facilities, the beginning of overall planning which will lead to rehabilitation of declining areas of the city—such moves are now underway. To be brought to completion—to put our community house in order—the support and in many cases the votes of the citizens will be necessary.

"I see that. I suppose you have plans for obtaining still more and larger tracts as time goes on, so that these very necessary areas will be sufficient for the people?"

"Yes, indeed. As the population increases they become more valuable than ever. And especially with the growing tensions of our life."

"I can see that. I suppose you have plans for obtaining still more and larger tracts as time goes on, so that these very necessary areas will be sufficient for the people?"

"Well, uh, not exactly. There are some plans, of course, but nothing very definite about establishing enough parks for the future."

"As a visitor from Mars I find some of your Earth situations rather puzzling."

"That's natural, I suppose. But I understand you have been reading a great deal about us, and interviewing a good many Earth people."

"Yes. I wonder if you could help me out with one or two questions I have encountered today?"

"Glad to help, sir. Glad to help in any way."

"Thank you. For instance, I see frequent mention of projects called 'logging in the parks,' 'mining in the parks,' and so on. What is the meaning of this?"

"Well, you see, parks are areas set aside for recreational use. Usually they're great tracts of forest, with mountains, streams, lakes and so on. You're familiar with these terms, I take it? The areas are for the free use of the public; for their pleasure, you understand. Camping, hiking, fishing, simple outdoor pleasures of all kinds."

"I see. They sound like very valuable areas."

"Yes, indeed. As the population increases they become more valuable than ever. And especially with the growing tensions of our life."

"I can see that. I suppose you have plans for obtaining still more and larger tracts as time goes on, so that these very necessary areas will be sufficient for the people?"

"Well, uh, not exactly. There are some plans, of course, but nothing very definite about establishing enough parks for the future."

Tobin

"But everybody admits the need will arise? They see the necessity?"

"Oh yes. Nearly everybody."

"But there's nothing much being done about it?"

"No definite plan, I guess."

"Hmmm. How very odd."

"As a matter of fact there is considerable pressure to remove some of the assets from the parks we already have. That's what your first question meant."

"Indeed?"

"Oh yes. Trees, for example. You see, trees are very valuable. We make them into lumber and pulp and other materials. You've been told all about that, I believe? And some very fine stands of trees are found in the parks. So of course there is a demand in some quarters to cut them and sell them."

"Of course these demands are laughed to scorn and the people punished."

"Not quite. Some parts of the government think that this would be an excellent source of income and park improvement."

"But these would be park trees that are of no scenic value?"

"Oh no. They're the main feature of the parks, usually."

"But . . ."

"Well, you see, we have what we call the private enterprise system and we mustn't curb it."

"I recognize it has many advantages. But when it goes against the public interest . . ."

"Well, logging the parks would provide work for quite a few men, you know, and revenue for the loggers and the government and the country."

"I see. Of course the parks would not be logged until every other tree in the country had been cut down and sold?"

"Well, no, I suppose not. But logging the parks is said to be a very good thing. And, of course, it would be private enterprise!"

"A bad application of a good principle, I'm afraid. In any case, I'm sure the laws of your country must provide complete protection for the parks, so that none of this could happen?"

"Well, no. As a matter of fact they could be altered any time and the parks thrown open to loggers and miners and so on."

"I find it very difficult to understand Earth-type thinking. But I fear it has some serious defects."

"Well, to tell you the truth, it's beginning to sound funny to me, too, now that I've described it to you."

"And the money you would receive from the park trees—what would you buy with it that is more necessary or valuable than the park trees themselves? Would you buy other trees?"

"Well, no, I suppose not. But logging the parks is said to be a very good thing. And, of course, it would be private enterprise!"

But they didn't agree with him.

Dr. Peter Remnant, 40, said at the Philosophy Club meeting on the UBC campus Monday that the Bible seems "just what you'd expect in the sacred writing of primitive people: tribal history, somewhat arrogant, pseudo-science, moral exhortation, folly wisdom."

"And it is literally spiced with miracles and marvels," said the professor of philosophy.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic church declined to comment on the talk.

Dean Northcote Burke of Christ Church Anglican Cathedral said: "Everybody has a right to say what they like but we don't have to agree with it. I think it is a shame to disturb the faith of others."

Dr. W. S. Taylor, principal of the United Church of Canada College at the university, said: "It is a good thing to have questions like this brought out in the open, but I don't believe I have any reason for believing there are unicorns but I don't believe I have any reason for believing there is a God."

He says he will discuss the question with his three children, aged 4, 5 and 7, when they are old enough.

City council Thursday is expected to approve a tentative deal for purchase of two warehouse properties on Yates as a site for the second parking garage.

Ald. Michael Griffin Tuesday announced agreement had been reached with W. N. O'Neill Co. and Cantin's Moving and Storage Ltd. but he would not disclose terms.

He said this cleared "the last major hurdle" for the two-garage $1,115,000 downtown parking scheme.

APPEARANCE AND EFFICIENCY of RCN Pacific Command destroyer HMCS Assiniboine will be drastically changed when she emerges from major conversion job at Victoria Machinery Depot. Artist's touch-up shows how Assiniboine—first of

B.C. HYDRO CHIEF IMPRESSED

Geyser-Power Used in N.Z.

They're using geyser-power in biggest lake and holiday resort of large amounts being spent on New Zealand.

B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside told about it Tuesday after spending four weeks in Australia and New Zealand.

"They're doing a most impressive job," he said.

Geyser power is hot springs caused by pockets of steam underground.

They are being harnessed to make electricity at Waikato, on Lake Taupo, New Zealand's electricity is being made by piping off steam underground and putting it under great pressure.

The cost at the moment is between 6 and 7 mills per kilowatt-hour, but that is because he said geyser-power could be produced for about 5 mills, a little higher than power from the Peace or Columbia Rivers in British Columbia.

The Waikato plant produces about 200,000 kilowatts, approximately the same as Vancouver Island's John Hart hydro project.

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Talks opened here Tuesday between Canadian and Soviet officials to review last year's trade traffic and discuss the future of Canadian-Russian trade agreement expiring next April.

The Canadian trade delegation, headed by Vincent L. Chapin, assistant director of trade department's international trade relations branch, arrived here Monday. The talks were expected to last the rest of this week.

The Canadian-Soviet trade agreement is reviewed yearly. It was first signed in 1956 and then extended for a further three years. The Soviet Union is currently purchasing about $20,000,000 worth of goods from Canada and Canada is importing about half as much.

U.S. 'Only Bright Spot' In Canada Trade Picture

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada had made a $1,561,200,000. trade surplus of $48,400,000 during the third quarter of this year—little more than a quarter of the surplus a year earlier—as United States markets continued to provide the only bright spot for Canadian exporters.

As Dominion Bureau of Statistics report today showed imports this year have been rising at a faster rate than export sales.

The commodity trade surplus during the July-September period compared with a $169,900,000 surplus a year earlier. For the first nine months of this year, Canada still had a commodity trade deficit of $85,400,000 in contrast to a year earlier when nine-month exports exceeded imports by $88,300,000. Third-quarter imports, estimates, were Canadian dollar. Exports to Britain in the third quarter rose fractionally to $241,300,000 and shipments to other Commonwealth countries were up 2.6 per cent to $86,000,000. But exports to the U.S. during July-September were up 11.2 per cent from a year earlier at $962,200,000.

'IRON MAN' HEBENTON RANKS WITH MURDOCH

NEW YORK (CP)—Andy He Benton will tie the New York Rangers club record for durability when he plays his 508th consecutive game for the National Hockey League team here tonight.

The resident of Victoria, B.C. will tie the record, currently held by former Rangers great Murray Murdoch who didn't miss a game from 1926 through 1936, when the lowly Rangers meet the even lowlier Boston Bruins.

He Benton's consecutive-game string for New York began with the opening game of the 1955-56 season.

Johnny Wilson, recently retired left winger, holds the league record for playing 580 consecutive games for Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—Football as practiced on the field becomes an effete exercise if compared to the martyrdom of the spectators who are the dumbest and bravest of sports buffs. Only in Florida and California can the observation of football games qualify as an enjoyable experience. The yelping of cheers and the chanting of doggerel should honor the multitude. The players ought to express their appreciation of the people in the stands. They're the genuine autumn heroes.

The people in the stands are generally the only amateurs in the joint. Most university players are compensated for their labor either in surreptitious cash payments or the pledges of lucrative jobs. Their game also trains them to be wrestlers and guarantees them inspection by scouts from the professional teams. The rewards for the watchers are pneumonia, alcoholism and broken marriages.

The players are honored by the creation of All-American teams which celebrate the elite among them. The buff is only noticed in the anonymity of the figures signifying the size of the crowd. The people who suffer without being identified are entitled to have their own museums on every campus.

No Monuments Honor Fractured Fans

In glass caskets in every college gymnasium are cherished reliques such as footballs with the scores painted on them and numbered jerseys of famous players. Autographs of every team that represented the brain store are hung in such shrines. The spectator is never remembered. Guys not born when Red Grange was making his runs know his number was 77.

Never have I seen the cast lathered to the leg of the old lush who fractured his knee cap because he fell down the stone steps of a stadium in a sleet storm.

Have you ever seen the patch a fan wore over his eye after it was poked by the staff of a pennant? Or a physician's report describing the damage rye whisky did to a man's kidney as he fought the germs assembling inside him during a November rain? The football buff arrives and departs without recognition, unselfishly hoarse from yelling the wonders of inferior men.

The football buff is tough and dedicated but his anguish is ignored, his ordeal bought and paid for by himself. The circumstances of their agony would cause the arrest of their torturers if domestic animals were subjected to the same brutality. Only mountain sheep and timber wolves are equipped by nature to resist the elements they challenge with such gallantry.

No statistics are available because records aren't compiled on spectators although every football game is explained as if it were a problem in algebra. But I wonder how many homes are busted up every season by husbands who demand their wives' presence at their freezing sides on Saturday afternoons. Not even poverty is a more ferocious enemy of martial bliss than football.

I doubt if there is a true she football fan in the country. Despite their continuous bragging of women's emancipation, the appearance of dames at football is proof they are still held in man's bondage. I submit as evidence that I have never seen an unescorted woman at a game after more than 25 years of covering them.

I understand the unmarried among the dolls going along with the proposition. They are trappers then. But, only cowardice or insecurity compels them to keep showing up once they have nailed their man.

Suppose it came up a blizzard this Saturday. What would the axe do if the old man suggested they take a couple of chairs out on the lawn and drink booze for a couple of hours in the snow? Probably, she'd guess the provider was deranged and would attempt to pacify him until the doctor came. It would not be illogical for her to believe daddy had murderous intentions and was trying to kill her off with pulmonary infection.

Maybe, that's the appeal that football has to so many husbands who insist the dreadnought accompany them to contests in weather that would imprison a polar bear in his cage.

Love Can't Flourish at Grid Games

Love can't flourish at football games. After being kissed by a gale for a couple of hours, even the face of the prettiest dearly-beloved resembles a plate of pigs' knuckles. Makeup runs down her face when the rain gets to her. Their drenched fur coats give them the appearance of drowned buffaloes.

In the interest of self preservation, they begin to take long raps at papa's bottle. After a couple of Saturdays, it is only a question of alimony and who will get custody of the kids.

I've never been in a football plant with an escalator. The climb up the snowy cliffs of a stadium puts a strain on even the sturdiest heart and must gravely penalize the coronary cases.

Coming down is more difficult. There are seldom railings and the lurches take numerous tumbles. They should be roped to ushers in the logical way of mountain climbers.

Enlightened men complain that football is a ferocious sport and should be abolished. But the spectator contends with all the perilous hazards. It seems impossible that they can negotiate a season without sickening with pneumonia, turning into rum pails or getting sued for divorce. Only the infantry soldier is expected to endure more in our civilization.

Palmer, Spahn, Mays Among Decade's Best

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Mays, Warren Spahn, Arnold Palmer and Bob Cousy Tuesday were named athletes of the decade (1950-60) for their respective sports, completing a national poll of 250 sports writers and broadcasters who selected 12 athletes.

Mays, of the San Francisco Giants, was picked as the outstanding hitter-fielder and Spahn, of the Milwaukee Braves, as the top major league pitcher. Palmer was golf's representative and Cousy was the basketball selection.

WATSON TO INDIANS

CLEVELAND (CP)—Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League have sent Eddie Watson, 20, a defenceman, to Springfield Indians of the A.H.L. on waivers.

'IF THE CROWN FITS...'

Trying on crown he is expected to win as nation's winningest jockey is apprentice Ronnie Ferraro. Riding last week from veteran Willie Shoemaker. Ferraro has 304 victories. Shoemaker is not expected to accept many mounts during rest of year.

Cats Find New Spirit; Discover Silver Lining

Cougars 10, Bruins 5

By ERNIE FEDORUK

They talk about every cloud having its silver lining, and Victoria Cougars apparently found it Tuesday night.

Cougars marched into Esquimalt's Sports Centre without the services of seven regulars. Even coach Bud Bradley was listed among the missing and manager Jack Morgan filled in on the bench.

Cougars marched out with a 10-5 victory over the Bruins and third place in the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League.

Cougars came up with 12 starters, but in that respect they were on even footing with John Merrifield's Bruins. The Cubs also fielded only 12 when Army recruits Claude McKenzie and Curtis Bird were confined to barracks on a medical officer's orders.

DRASTIC HUSTLE

. . . Victoria's dozen promptly proceeded to out-hustle and out-score Esquimalt's 12. Displaying a spirit that had been sadly lacking in previous games, the Cougars earned full marks for their victory if judgment was passed only on positional play.

Bruins, inclined to individual efforts, were no match for Cougars' smooth team work.

Tied 2-2 after two periods, Cats broke it wide open by counting five straight goals within 10 minutes in the third period.

Paul Bion and Bob Buie, called up from the juvenile Cougars, and little Lionel DuBau each scored two goals while Bob Holness and Glen Vickers each picked up four points on single goals and three assists. Defencemen John Hansen and Glen Robertson, both standouts, also scored cat goals.

Ron Bowmen, George Springer, Dan Buie, Doug Couch and Denis Davy scored for Esquimalt.

NATIONALS HERE THURSDAY

Destination Uncertain But No Doubt of Power

Lethbridge Nationals may still be wondering if they will get to play in the world basketball championships, but there is little doubt that they have assembled one of the strongest hoop clubs ever collected in Canada.

An indication of just how much power they pack will be seen when Nationals tackle Victoria Haida Chiefs in an invitation-tussle Thursday night at Central Junior High School.

Lethbridge was nominated to represent the world tournament at Manila after defeating London Fredericks in the national senior men's final last spring. Originally scheduled Dec. 1-15, the championships were recently cancelled when the Philippines refused to grant visas to some of the competing teams.

In their place, is an international tournament and the Nationals hope to leave Vancouver for Manila on Sunday. Finances are a problem, but name to Nationals.

Duncan's Dirom Rates High on List

Coach Bob Hamilton picked up some big boys and some good ones to go along with the six players he has carried over.

High on the list of newcomers is Duncan native Nell Dirom, a six-foot, seven-inch forward who last season held down the first-string centre position with Washington State University.

Tallest is former high school ace Bob Ingalls, a six-eleven 250-pounder who spent the last three years at Brigham Young University.

Also joining Nationals were Lance Stephens, a Vancouver product who has played with McMurray College at Abilene.

Inter-City Wheel Rolls Saturday

They'll tackle UBC Thunderbirds at Vancouver at noon Thursday, meet the Chiefs here Thursday night, play the Mainland All-Stars at Vancouver Friday and take on the Athletics Saturday night in Alberni.

Meeting the Nationals will be a rugged opening chore for the Chiefs, who launch their Inter-City League campaign Saturday night on the same floor against Vancouver's Harlem Nocturnes.

But playing against the best is invaluable experience and both the Haidas and city fans will be seeing the best in the country when action starts at 8:30 Thursday at Central Junior High.

Hornung May Need Surgery

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Paul Hornung, scoring ace of Green Bay Packers, of the National Football League, doesn't expect to play Thursday against Detroit Lions and says his twisted knee may require surgery.

Hornung has played less than five minutes with the undefeated Packers since he was injured in a game October 14 at Minnesota. The game will be the 36th in the tournament which started last Friday with a total of 7,959. The total tied the record set in last year's tourney by Joseph, 44.

Japanese Side May Tour B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Japanese National rugby team hopes to visit British Columbia for a five-game tour next March.

The all-star team has made its offer to the B.C. Rugby Union, which will consider the idea at a meeting Friday. Games would be against top teams in this province.

In return, the Japanese have proposed that a Canadian team visit Japan later in the year for a round-robin series with Australia, New Zealand and Japan, and a subsequent tour against university teams.

NEW YORK — Teddy Pagan, 129, Puerto Rico, outpointed Willie Davis, 129½, Philadelphia, 8.

'Infant System' Of Law Must Be Flexible

The inadequacy of international law leads people to think there is no international law. Dr. C. A. Bourne, member of the Faculty of Law at University of British Columbia, told the Victoria Kiwanis Club at its Tuesday luncheon.

"It is an infant system of law that hasn't yet blossomed or grown into a large tree," he said.

Dr. Bourne compared today's international law to systems used by Anglo-Saxons and Normans.

"The United Nations is not a law-making body. It can only make recommendations."

"Can you imagine a system of law without a lawmaker?" he asked.

"It is possible, but it is handicapped and doesn't grow quickly."

TWO-THIRDS AT UN

Dr. Bourne said there is a gradual evolution in this field. The old League of Nations had to have a 100 per cent vote to carry a motion into effect; the UN General Assembly needs only a two-thirds majority.

-He saw a definite need for a police force.

"The UN Security Council has the right to use force to keep peace, but its main failure is a nation's power to veto."

The only thing binding on countries as far as international law is concerned is a treaty.

This "legislation by contract" is binding between two countries, but it is not binding to other countries of the world, Dr. Bourne explained.

FLEXIBILITY NEEDED

International law must be flexible.

"A legal system must be capable of being changed. Today, our legislators can change a law overnight."

"No writ or summons can bring a case before the International Court of Justice at The Hague. Consequently, the court is not very busy."

In international law there are no statutes to look up to see if the U.S. was correct in its quarantine of Cuba, he explained.

Refugees Flee Angola

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Portuguese repression in Angola is so severe that refugees are straining Red Cross facilities in the neighboring Congo, a five-nation fact-finding committee reported Tuesday night.

The committee — which was denied entry to Angola — accused Portugal of continuing armed action against the black population and said Lisbon will face United Nations punitive measures unless such practices stop.

Describing conditions in Angola, an area about the size of Quebec with a population of 5,000,000, of whom only about 130,000 are whites, the committee said:

"As of January of this year, some 151,200 Angolan refugees in the border areas of The Congo were receiving rations from the League of Red Cross Societies, and this number did not include the refugees in the interior or those receiving other aid."

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—United Auto Workers Local 55 and a Buffalo machine company signed a contract Tuesday putting the plant's production and maintenance workers on a flat annual salary.

A UAW spokesman in Detroit said the contract was the first of its kind in the union which has more than 1,000 labor contracts across the U.S.

Under the three-year contract, the 25 workers at Sgob Machine and Tool Workers Inc., will draw annual salaries of $6,240 for skilled status; $5,760 for limited-skill; and $5,510 for unskilled.

TRUST OF CUBAN PEOPLE BETRAYED

Castro Denounced by Jurists

GENEVA (AP)—The International Commission of Jurists denounced the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro Tuesday as a vicious dictator that betrayed the trust of the Cuban people.

Thus, the ominous circle from oppression to freedom and back to oppression appears once again to have been closed," the commission's secretary-general, Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, said in a foreword.

The findings were based on Cuban government statements and publications, and statements by scores of witnesses.

The report recalled that the commission, which long opposed the "cruel, autocratic and corrupt" Batista regime, congratulated Castro when he took power in January, 1959.

The entire Cuban people welcomed Castro and at first gave him almost unanimous support, the commission said, adding:

"Few revolutionary movements have been welcomed with more satisfaction and have engendered more hopes than that of Fidel Castro."

BETRAYED TRUST

"... If any particular action by Fidel Castro were to be pointed out as particularly reprehensible, then it would be the betrayal of this trust of the Cuban people, the attempt to uproot their best traditions and to break their spirit of freedom."

"By subjecting the country to the rule of a totalitarian machine based on alien ideology, the regime of Fidel Castro suppressed by violence the very principles which it promised to uphold. Foremost among them, the rule of law has disappeared from the Cuban scene."

The commission said it could not verify or contradict reports that more than 1,000 persons have been executed and 150,000 others are held in prison in Cuba.

"The evidence... suffices, however, to expose the cruelty with which the victorious Cuban revolution proceeds to deprive its children."

COURTENAY ALDERMAN OPPOSES NEW ROAD

$50 Million to Save Hour's Driving Time?

COURTENAY—A proposed highway between the Alberni and Comox Valleys has been strongly criticized by a city alderman as serving no useful purpose.

Ald. Ken Willis told council an expenditure of $50,000 was not justified just to save an hour's travelling time.

He said construction along the sheer cliffs of Comox Lake would be very costly.

Even use of the existing Comox Logging Company road on one side of the lake would be expensive to make it safe for public transportation, he said.

A meeting of council representatives and Chambers of Commerce from the Alberni and the Comox Valley has been called for Nov. 28 in Parksville to discuss the road. Ald. Willis said he was opposed to spending taxpayers' money for projects on the claim they would be good for the district. Some more concrete result was necessary, he said.

"It's a bad thing to have groups of people always pressuring the government to spend millions in a district if it is of no benefit to the rest of the country," the alderman said.

Other aldermen said the proposed road would be good for tourists by providing a triangle route between Nanaimo, the Alberni and Courtenay.

Council voted to support the Parksville meeting and will send Ald. Harry Harris as its delegate.

Duncan Rider Badly Hurt In Car Mishap

Horse Destroyed After Losing Leg

DUNCAN—Ed. Lister of Marsh Road, well known in Vancouver Island riding circles, suffered serious injuries Tuesday when he was thrown from his horse in an accident on the Trans-Canada Highway.

He fractured his skull and is reported to be in fair condition in King's Daughters Hospital.

The accident occurred on the highway opposite the golf course three miles south of Duncan.

HORSE SHIED

Mr. Lister was riding a bay horse south on the highway, when the animal shied and crashed into a southbound car driven by Mrs. Ken Barlow of Duncan.

He was thrown from his mount and the left front leg of the horse was torn off by the impact.

Witnesses said the animal ran another 300 feet up a side road before it was finally shot by Art Burnett of Duncan, who was passing by in his car at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Barlow was not injured.

Mr. Lister's wife, one of his small daughters, and Mrs. K. Mykantias were following Mr. Lister in a car when the accident occurred.

Mr. Lister is employed as an orderly in King's Daughters Hospital. He is considered an expert rider.

Trapped Miners Swim to Safety Near Mesachie

LAKE COWICHAN—Two men swam to safety from a flooded mine tunnel after being trapped for several hours underground at the Alberta Mine nine miles southwest of Mesachie Lake.

Mine manager Ted Apps of Lake Cowichan, Duncan, were drilling in a 400-foot tunnel when a wall of water gushed through the mine portal.

SWIM TO ENTRY

They climbed to a 30-foot level and waited until the water had settled and then swam to the entrance of the mine.

They managed to creep through an opening blocked by debris and walked 10 miles to their jeep.

Alan Harder, president of the company, said the flash flood was probably caused by a breaking log jam at nearby Robertson River.

Carbon Monoxide Blamed In Death

NANAIMO—A coroner's jury this week named carbon monoxide poisoning as the reason for the death of 80-year-old Mrs. Leonora Simpson in a fire at her home here November 9.

Coroner Russ Inkster told the jury: "This is a case where the deceased woman could very likely have made her way to safety had she not been impaired by alcohol."

preferably by inspection on the spot, he said the United States will do its own checking on military activity in Cuba.

He clearly meant that without other measures, the United States would continue to send out reconnaissance planes to guard against another buildup in Cuba, despite Premier Fidel Castro's threat to shoot them down.

U.S. Navy patrol planes received the assignment of checking outward-bound ships carrying the Russian bombers out of Cuba by aerial photography.

The United States began returning some forces to normal stations. The U.S. Navy said that the 63 ships of the naval blockade force should be back at duty stations this week.

LIFT QUARANTINE

However, Cuba now is free of the four-week naval quarantine, lifted Tuesday night a few hours after Soviet Premier Khrushchev messaged Kennedy his agreement to haul away the bombers in 30 days if the president would pull back his ships.

The Khrushchev removal pledge, together with his promise to let the world observe and count the bombers as they come out of "Cuba," goes a long way towards reducing the danger which faced the hemisphere four weeks ago, Kenendy told his press conference Tuesday. It was the first such meeting with reporters in 10 weeks.

Khrushchev was reported to have placed about 30 IL-28s in Cuba.

Kennedy would not say directly whether the United States would refuse to give a formal pledge against invading Cuba without UN inspection but hinted this was the case.

in the northwest and the To-wang sector of the northeast frontier 12½ miles behind the line of actual control on Nov. 7, 1959. On the eastern sector of the Northeast Frontier, the Chinese said they would withdraw to the disputed McMahon line and then pull back an additional 12½ miles.

Peking also proposed that after lesser Indian and Chinese officials worked out details of the demilitarized zone Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Nehru meet in Peking or New Delhi to negotiate a border settlement.

Initial appraisals of the Chinese offer indicated the Chinese appeared willing to withdraw from a large sector of India's Northeast Frontier district, where they stand poised at the gateway to the fertile and populous Assam Plains, but were not giving up any important ground in Ladakh far to the west.

There is an important difference for the Indian government between the Sept. 8, 1962, withdrawal border demarcation and the Nov. 7, 1959, status proposed by the Chinese.

India began placing a picket line of outposts in Ladakh after 1959. By the Chinese terms, India would have to give up the forward line that was established to check Chinese encroachments in Ladakh. This line was overrun in the first days of the Chinese offensive that began last Oct. 20.

HIGHER SALES LEVY, LOTTERIES PROPOSED AS STREAMLINING DEVICES

'We Need Tax Harness That Permits the Economy to Run,' Says Dean

A three-part plan designed to give Canada a real position in the emerging economic world order was put forward by a former director of the World Bank here Tues- day night.

Dr. Neil Perry, a former Victorian who has held leading posts as economist in provincial, federal and international government levels said, in view of economic world developments such as the Common Market:

The federal government should adopt streamlined tax devices, including a larger sales tax and the lottery, to encourage domestic manufacturing industries.

Automation

Firms should be prepared to adopt a system of sweeping automation, even at the expense of laying off some of the labor force.

A "labor dollar" should be instituted as a form of federal wage subsidy to encourage firms to hire extra employees re-trained to keep abreast of latest techniques.

Dr. Perry, now dean of Commerce at UBC, told a meeting of the National Office Managers' Association at the Net Loft restaurant that Canadians failed to set goals for themselves "both in terms of our own national performance and in terms of our participation in the unfolding world order."

Canada's forced to follow the U.S. lead in bargaining with the emerging Common Market, for fear of being "left on the side lines," Dr. Perry said.

Modification

Resulting increased competitive pressure on Canadian manufacturers from imports could be offset by a modification of President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Bill. This contemplates re-adjustment allowances to help firms afflicted by foreign competition resulting from lowered tariffs, Dr. Perry said.

He supported the tax reduction on extra income earned by a company through sales and employment expansion embodied in the then finance minister Donald Fleming's last budget.

"Clearly, if we want Canadians to strive harder to raise the national income, we must be prepared to let them take home most of that extra slice of income," Dr. Perry said.

Aid Hospitals

"I suggest this means using tax devices that have frequently been labelled by derogatory titles — as the sales tax and lotteries usually are," he said.

(Later, Dr. Perry said such lotteries as those which the Quebec provincial government wants Ottawa to legalize would be used as welfare schemes to benefit hospitals and charities.)

"Of course this presupposes agreement between the federal and provincial levels of government, which as yet we have not been able to get. But it will come in the end," he added.

EASILY DONE

Amendment to the B.C. Liquor Act would involve no more than a re-definition of the word "minor" as used in the act.

Many students feel that lowering the legal age would virtually eliminate the student drinking problem that has incurred the displeasure of Victoria College's administration lately.

Tied in with the liquor question is the problem of student discipline.

Having taken on the chore of disciplining students for minor offences, the governing students' council is seeking to set up an impartial tribunal to handle cases as they arise.

Suggestions made by a student commission on discipline included plans for a seven-man tribunal whose membership would be different for each case, selected at random out of the student body.

Soonest the new plan could go into effect—if approved by the students—would be in the post-Chris term.

"That sort of thing should be nipped in the bud."

"It's bad enough when there are a lot of bums on downtown streets but I realize every city has a certain amount of that."

"We should not let them invade the residential areas where they can upset housewives and make them nervous and afraid of muggings."

Alf Edgelow said he had notified Mayor R. B. Wilson of the incident and also would see Police Chief John Blackstock.

"GUESS AHEAD"

"We have no definite plans for him," she said. "We'll simply have to try to guess ahead—to anticipate his needs, and improvise as we go. There is just no pattern for anything like this."

Immediate plans call for a home rearning. This may change if an institution geared to the specialized needs of the nation's thalidomide-deformed children is set up. Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. Bamber welcome announcement that a Thalidomide Crippled Children's Society has been established in Victoria, with an ambitious program of instructional and financial aid.

NO GUIDELINES

"This is the times we wish we could win an Irish Sweepstakes!" Mrs. Bamber signed herself out after treatment.

Charles A. Whitehead, 78, of 4591 West Saanich, was riding west about 5 p.m. in the 4500 block Wilkinson Road, when he was overtaken by a car driven by Mrs. Gwendolynne M. Berg, 4576 Wilkinson.

His bicycle ran into the ditch, hitting a cement culvert, and throwing him over the handlebars. His head struck a blacktop driveway.

He was taken to hospital with face lacerations and possible concussion, but refused to stay after treatment.

Police said his bicycle was not equipped with reflectors or lights. No action is pending.

mittled, "there is nothing for it but to displace part of the existing work force."

But the displaced workers must be re-trained to be brought abreast of newer techniques so that it may be re-hired.

As a possible insurance that workers so displaced would be re-absorbed into industry, Dr. Perry presented a new device which he labelled the "labor dollar."

In effect a federal wage subsidy, the labor dollar would encourage manufacturers to hire extra employees.

Dr. Perry suggested firms would be able to buy the dollars from the Unemployment Insurance Agency at a discount. The discount naturally would be deeper as the unemployment situation worsened.

The firm then could hire

the re-trained workers, paying them at the going wage rate. Additional labor costs from hiring the extra workers would be lower by virtue of the subsidy through the labor dollars, Dr. Perry explained.

Pay Themselves

He added that it would be hoped workers eventually would be willing to pay themselves for their re-training.

Dr. Perry cautioned that his thesis only could be applied to a healthy economy.

MONTE ROBERTS

Student Rally To Debate Drink Woes

By LESLIE MILLIN
Times College Correspondent

If there is one thing I hate more than a doting parent who is forever talking about his child, it is a doting grandparent who is forever talking about his grandchild.

For this reason, I have carefully refrained from mentioning a certain young lady in this space for 16, these many months.

In fact, I do not believe I have mentioned this young lady since she was about half past three, although she is now at least a quarter past four.

SOME grandparents I know would have taken advantage of the space so kindly loaned me by the kindly management of this kindly newspaper, and they would have run a picture of their grandchild.

Just so you'll understand the restraint I have imposed upon myself, this is a picture of my granddaughter, Valerie Roberts by name, which I have bravely refrained from having printed in this space.

I have also avoided (I do not wish to boast, but Truth Will Out) reporting various sage remarks, even her recent explanation of an attack of the hiccups:

"Don't worry, Mother; it's just that I have a drinking problem."

Or the answer to My Favorite Grandmother's query as to when Valerie was coming for another visit:

"Oh, some time next year, I guess. I am very busy. I have a lot of playing to do."

And I dutifully refrained to report (THIS took will power) on what Valerie said when she returned from a visit to the mainland.

Asked if she had had a nice holiday, the young lady said, more patiently than scornfully:

"I haven't been on a holiday; I just went to Vancouver."

But the bounds of restraint have broken. I simply MUST tell you about the young lady's first visit to Sunday School.

She looked forward to this event with keen anticipation, and arrived at St. Christopher's with great admonitions from her mother to be on her best behavior.

I understand from innocent bystanders that her best behavior was better than usual, that she put her ten cents into the offering box with apparent equanimity, and paid attention (mostly) to what the Sunday School Teacher had to say.

Her behavior, in fact, was impeccable.

Including her last conversational gambit, which occurred while she was being escorted from the premises.

Spying an official of the church who was obviously in a position of authority, she approached same and said, her voice all milk and honey:

"May I have my money back now, please?"

Order Or Make Your Own Christmas Centrepiece

By Penny Saver

If you have a Christmas centrepiece in mind but are in quandary as to how to transpose it from mind to table, Penny knows the shop you should visit.

Penny had a wonderful time browsing in and around Christmas bells, holly sprays and poinsettias in this shop that specializes in floral, seasonal and novelty arrangements. You can buy arrangements made up or you can have your own design made to order.

These women, who were busy putting a candle here and some bells there, will be glad to help you develop any idea you may have.

If you have the time and the imagination to create your own centrepiece you can buy the materials separately. Clusters of brightly colored bells for 25 cents a dozen, spikes are three for 25 cents and angels cost between 25 and 75 cents a piece. This is only a sampling of all the many things there are to choose from.

Put your friends in a festive mood by hanging a Christmas decoration on your door. One of the more attractive ones already made up has two large mission bells on a gold and green background. This one costs $4.95. Another one which was a bit more expensive was a Christmas tree made of gold leaves.

There seems to be an endless variety of centrepieces to choose from but the simpler ones with one candle only cost $1.49. A similar one with two candles requires another 30 cents.

Compote arrangements, that is a long stemmed dish filled with imitation marzipan candies or a candle in a cluster of bells and holly, is one more of their attractive centrepieces.

Hanging baskets, or birdcages filled with gay leaves and flowers, poinsettia wall plaques and hall stands made of ribbons and poinsettias are only a few more of the wonderful things you can buy to create the festive atmosphere.

Don't add Christmas decorations to your entertainment worries, phone Penny at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY

Your Turn, Sailor!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your stand that a bachelor's appearance is his own responsibility and a married man's appearance is the responsibility of his wife. Ill-fitting, unpressed clothes and unshined shoes are a reflection of the man who wears them. Only a slob looks like a slob. Please indicate in your column how many times a week you shine your husband's shoes. Abby, and I will send you a little gold medal! NAVY.

DEAR NAVY: Seven, Mate. Now send the medal and I'll send that, too!

DEAR ABBY: I can't go along with your opinion that it's the wife's fault if her husband looks like a slob. The only thing my husband and I ever fight about is his appearance. Abby, there can be 16 clean shirts in his drawer—all in perfect condition—and he will pick the one with the button missing, put it on and wear it, instead of looking for another one. He doesn't care or notice if his suits are rumpled and his ties have spots on them. He never looks at his shoes. I have given up trying to correct him. He's hopeless. But he's mine. CEIL.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married three weeks. Everything has gone quite well except that we cannot agree on what I should call my 21-year-old wife. I prefer to call her "Ma"—in an affectionate way. She does not have any children and she gets very angry when I call her "Ma." We have agreed to let you settle it. I won't call her anything until we hear from you. G.J.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married three weeks. Everything has gone quite well except that we cannot agree on what I should call my 21-year-old wife. I prefer to call her "Ma"—in an affectionate way. She does not have any children and she gets very angry when I call her "Ma." We have agreed to let you settle it. I won't call her anything until we hear from you. G.J.

DEAR G.J.: I can't say that I blame a bride of three weeks for objecting to being called "Ma." She is neither your "Ma" nor anyone else's. Call her "Sweetheart" until you have a good reason to call her "Ma"—or she may never be one.

Announcement

Mrs. Joseph E. Cann, 1036 Fairfield Road, announces the engagement of her younger daughter, Norma Helen, to Mr. Gunnar J. Berg, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Berg of Svensby, Norway. The wedding will take place in the Church of Our Lord on Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. with Bishop D. A. G. officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite gown of satin brocade that had appliquéd motifs enhancing the neckline of the fitted bodice. Sleeves ended in lily points. The full skirt was highlighted with a rose centred bow at back. Four-tier veil misted from a coronet of pearls. Stephanotis and red roses were in her bouquet. As jewelry she wore the groom's gift of a pearl necklace and earrings.

Identical gowns of red satin brocade, with toning headpieces of French roses were chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. Hank Slots, Victoria; bridesmatron, Mrs. P. John, Port Alberni, and bridesmaid, Miss Carol Chisholm, Port Alberni. They carried carnation bouquets.

Blue floral headpieces and blue frocks were worn by flower girls, Sheila Sunhar, Victoria, and Vicki Rai, Alberni. Roses were in the flower baskets they carried.

Mohan Singh Gill, Vancouver, was best man and ushers were the bride's brother, Tommy Singh Sundhur and Stuart Pitts, both of Port Alberni.

Donald McIntosh proposed the toast to the bride at a reception at Rosebank. Several guests from Victoria attended. Andy Patterson was master of ceremonies.

As her going-away ensemble, the bride chose a red Italian double knit suit, black and gold accessories and white gardenia corsage.

After a honeymoon in Victoria the newlyweds are now making their home at Port Alberni.

PM MAKES PROMISE

Commission on Divorce Asked by Federation

OTTAWA (UPI)—A leading Canadian women's group said today Prime Minister John Diefenbaker promised to "consider" its proposal for a royal commission on divorce.

Spokesmen for the 7,000-member Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs indicated, however, they got a cooler reception for a proposed royal commission probe into the nation's abortion laws.

A federation delegation led by the president, Elsie Gregory MacGill, put the recommendations before the Prime Minister

"The Prime Minister said he would consider our proposal for a royal commission on divorce, but he did not commit himself," Miss MacGill told newsmen. "I thought he was more inclined to favor this proposal than the other one on abortion."

Miss MacGill said the federation received its best reception on some of the other points in its brief. These included elimination of double taxation on death benefits, rewording of the federal "equal pay for equal work" legislation, an amendment to prevent discrimination because of sex in National Employment Service operations, and introduction of a $1,000 income tax exemption for housekeeping services required by a working woman with dependents.

The submission on abortion charged that the present criminal code was "confusing, conflicting, out-dated and, in certain instances, cruel and unjust." With public "anxiety" increased as a result of the recent thalidomide tragedies, a royal commission study was needed to "bring the laws into conformity with the realities of Canadian life," the brief said.

Bread, cakes, pies and other delicacies were sold rapidly at home cooking stall convened by Mrs. H. V. Hummel, Mrs. I. Royle and Mrs. E. H. Strickland. Also well patronized were luncheons and tea where servitors were members of the AYPA.

Stall convenors included: Superfluities, Mrs. V. Chase and Mrs. E. Edwards; gifts, Miss M. Turner and Mrs. J. Scoble; candy, Mrs. F. MacLean and Mrs. C. Highsted; fish pond, Mrs. W. Taylor; mincemeat, Mrs. R. Gregg and Mrs. S. Copeman, and decorations, Mrs. R. Middleton.

and Mrs. W. D. M. Patterson, and Gerald Anthony Kent, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pelham Kent, all of West Vancouver.

As flower girl, the bride's cousin, Miss Anne Patterson, wore a white organza frock and white coronet and veil.

Lynn Woodside was best man. Ushers were Dave Gooding, Steve Jewett and Bill Shilcock.

Thomas Hetherington proposed the toast at a reception in the Capilano Golf Club.

For her going-away outfit the bride wore a forest green sheath complemented with gold accessories and a corsage of Jack o' Lantern roses.

Among the out-of-town guests were the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Patterson, Anne and Douglas, of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. R. Hosspool of Powell River, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fulton and D. McNeil of Port Alberni and J. A. McGee of Montreal.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

One Must Pay for Success

"Discipline is one of the main ingredients for success in anything you undertake," says movie, stage and TV actress Celeste Holm. "Discipline is the ability to be on time, to sacrifice things you might want to do for things you have to do, to say, 'I'm going to do it today—not tomorrow or next week, but today!'"

We have all read about some of the prima donnas of the movies and the theatre and may have gained the impression that actors and actresses are very flighty folks, irresponsible and temperamental. However, Miss Holm says that this is not so, "except for a few, to whom acting is merely a way to make money and build up their ego. The true actor is a serious craftsman, who has consideration for his fellow workers and a love and respect for the work he is doing."

Celeste Holm continues, "I think this applies to most people's work. A certain amount of discipline is needed to get the job done. Most businesses would fire an antagonistic worker but the entertainers field seems to coddle them. The real stars, however, the real top actors and actresses of the theatre and movies are usually a joy to work with."

Miss Holm remarks that anyone who is out to become a top star should be made aware that the higher you go the harder it gets, not easier! With the compensations of admiration and acclaim also come tremendous responsibility for the success of a play, the choosing of the correct play, the narrowing down of roles to only the important ones and the increased difficulty of having a private life.

All of this applies to everyone and to every endeavor. One must pay the price for success, no matter whether it is a beauty or health routine, a career or a marriage. Self-discipline must be a part of the picture if you are going to win!

If you would like to have my leaflet "Essential Daily Routine," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

IN BRITAIN

LEGAL BETTING SHOPS BOOM BOOKIE BUSINESS

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — In Britain, Harry the Horse is dead. Bookmakers have gone respectively.

Gone are the furtive characters who once operated on the curbside with one eye on the bobby on the beat and the other on the favorite in the afternoon's big race.

Today, "turf accountants" do business in the chrome-and-pastel interiors of what are known as "licensed betting offices." In their discreetly-tailored suits they are hardly distinguishable from bank managers.

All of this is the result of Britain's Betting and Gaming Act, which made bookmaking legal 18 months ago. Since then the bookmakers have doubled their take and now gross close to $3 billion a year.

There are 20,000 betting shops in Britain, double the number of a year ago. New ones are opening at the rate of 100 a week. Even a depressed area like Glasgow keeps 450 betting shops going. Average gross per shop: $4,200 a week. Some in London have taken in as much as $56,000 in a week.

The mushroom growth of betting shops has brought its headaches, however. Signalling the outbreak of a new type of gang warfare, home-made bombs were recently pushed through the letter boxes of two betting shops in London's Soho. Scotland Yard thinks that the bombs are the work of hoodlums, seeking to organize a protection racket.

Robert Mellish, who represents a London dockside area in the House of Commons, in General Motors denies the government's claims and says a manufacturer has a responsibility not only to its dealers but also its customers to see that its products are properly handled.

Union to Pay $13,411 After Illegal Strike

TORONTO (CP)—The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) has agreed to pay $13,411 to settle a damage claim by the Polymer Corporation of Sarnia for losses incurred in an illegal strike. Professor Bora Laskin, professor of law at the University of Toronto, said Tuesday.

The allegation is that the defendants conspired to deprive southern California buyers of a free and unrestricted competitive market by trying to stop the sale of cars through discount houses and rental services.

Two Injured In Car Crash

Two people were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for minor treatment and released following a two-car collision at North Dalry and Service about 8:25 a.m. Monday.

Driver of one car, George Wayne Atkinson, 3150 Davin, suffered chest and knee injuries, and passenger Ruth Hill, 2642 Shelburne, forehead cuts.

Duane R. Sutherland, 1051 Colville, driver of the other car, was not injured.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A band of 300 armed men attacked a small army outpost southeast of the capital during the weekend and killed two soldiers before being driven off, newspapers reported Monday.

EDMONTON (CP)—There was no sound reason for the calling of provincial elections in Quebec, Newfoundland and Manitoba, Premier E. C. Manning said here Monday.

At the same time he all-but-squashed political rumblings of a quick election in Alberta.

Phone Mixup To Blame For Shutdown?

By AB KENT
Times Staff Reporter

PORT ALBERNI—A costly eight-day shutdown of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company's sawmill division could have been caused by a misunderstanding, a witness said Tuesday at the trial of 47 boom men charged with staging an illegal strike.

The company charges the boom men were party to an illegal walkout Aug. 27 resulting in loss of $47,112 in wages, 417,900 square feet of shingles and 3,770,000 board feet of other production.

They, along with International Woodworkers of America Local 1-85, and its president Walter Allen, are charged with offences under the Labor Relations Act, including condoning an illegal action, interfering with production and failing to do what the law requires.

Magistrate W. E. MacLeod is hearing the case.

Boom Men Felt Company Reneged

Cause of the dispute was the temporary appointment of a charge hand on the boom crew for a two-week period during the holiday of the regular man—a matter of a 10 cents an hour differential on the $2.18½ basic rate of pay.

The union holds that a man with more seniority should have got the job, and the company insists on the right to appoint men on the basis of competency, but taking seniority into consideration.

Case for the Crown closed late in the afternoon, meaning the Somass mill will remain closed a second day while the defence case is heard today.

Last witness was Port Alberni sawmills' general manager Bryce Page, informant in the charges, who said he was in touch by telephone with IWA local president Earl Early in the dispute in an application.

Legalized betting is being blamed for everything from teen-age immorality to a slump in retail trade, and now there is talk of taxing the betting shops in order to restrict their growth. A tax on bets in the form of stamp duty to be paid by the bookie would not only cool Britain's gambling fever, but would net the Treasury close to $3 million a week.

Plumping for a tax law to curb self-indulgence, The Sunday Telegraph asks, "Ought not the State protect us from ourselves?"

CNR AND FRENCH-CANADIANS

Discrimination Denied

Ottawa (CP)—CNR President Donald Gordon's first appearance of the year before the Commons railway committee Tuesday soon developed into an angry exchange over the absence of French-Canadians in the railway's management.

Liberal and Social Credit MPs from Quebec accused the publicly-owned corporation of discrimination against French-Canadians in appointing its top officials.

Mr. Gordon denied the charge. He said French-Canadians have not reached the CNR's upper echelons because of a shortage of qualified applicants, but he predicted that the trend will be reversed in the next few years.

The exchange was sparked by Gilles Gregoire, Social Credit MP for Lévis, who noted that the top 28 top CNR officials listed in the 1961 annual report are all English-speaking.

Lionel Chevrier, MP for Montreal Laurier, who was a transport minister in the former Liberal government, said: "I know Mr. Gordon is not prejudiced."

Graduates of Quebec universities had been actively recruited in recent years and some of these would rise to high positions.

He forecast a CNR deficit of $48,300,000 for the 1962 calendar year, compared with the deficit of $67,000,000 last year.

Way Clear For Cuba Settlement

Blockade Lifted;
Bombers Leaving

UNITED NATIONS — United Nations delegates hailed today concessions by the United States and the Soviet Union on two main friction points over Cuba as a big step-out of the crisis.

Diplomats predicted that long negotiations lay ahead before a final settlement is reached. But most felt the talks could proceed more smoothly since Premier Khrushchev has promised to pull about 30 jet bombers out of Cuba and President Kennedy countered by ordering the naval arms blockade lifted.

Kennedy stressed in his press conference Tuesday night that there still is no on-site UN inspection to make sure the Soviet Union is living up to its side of the bargain.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has agreed to let the bombers be removed from his country but stressed again his opposition to inspection on Cuban soil and threatened again to shoot down U.S. planes flying over Cuba on reconnaissance missions.

FIRE ON PLANE

Cuban anti-aircraft batteries fired Tuesday on a low-flying twin-engined plane over the Havana suburb of Miramar. The plane, presumed to be a U.S. Navy Neptune patrol plane, returned the fire briefly.

There were no reports that anyone aboard the plane or on the ground was hit. The plane flew off without apparent damage.

Castro's giving up the bombers was seen by UN delegates as a triumph for Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan. He has spent nearly three weeks in Havana presumably trying to persuade the Cuban leader to go along with Khrushchev's pledge to get all effective weapons out of Cuba under UN surveillance.

Diplomats here noted that Castro's agreement to let the bombers go was accompanied by reports that Mikoyan had signed a new three-year economic aid pact with Cuba.

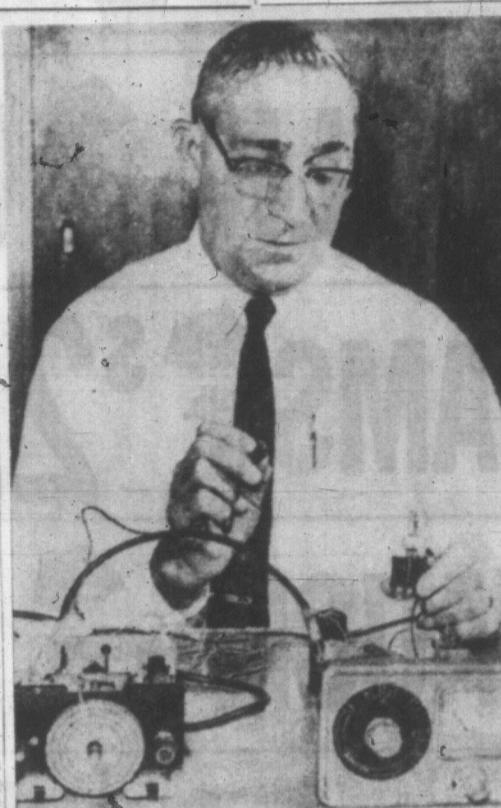

Kennedy emphasized at his press conference Tuesday night that he has no intention of invading Cuba. But he said he couldn't guarantee peace in the Caribbean until other conditions for a crisis settlement, including United Nations inspection of the island, are met.

Until arrangements are made to verify the withdrawal of Russian missiles and planes,

Soviet Cancels Combat Alert

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today cancelled the state of combat readiness it proclaimed for its armed forces because of the Cuban crisis.

Moscow radio said the Soviet council of ministers had ordered Defence Minister Rodion Malinovsky to return his forces to normal status because the United States had lifted its arms blockade of Cuba.

The order cancelled one issued Oct. 23, at the height of the Cuban crisis. At that time the defence ministry cancelled all military leaves and halted discharges of service men of senior age groups in the strategic rocket forces, anti-aircraft units and the submarine fleet.

The order today also said all Soviet submarines should return to their normal stations.

Soviet Marshal Andrei Gretchko, commander of the Warsaw pact military forces, also cancelled similar combat readiness orders he issued to his forces Oct. 23. Gretchko's order went to the armed forces of the other east European Communist nations which with the Soviet Union form the Warsaw pact alliance, the Communist counterpart of NATO.

'Another Economic Crisis If We're Defeated Now'

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Nowlan expressed a "pass" a government tariff bill before Tuesday night that any Canadian general election in the immediate future might cause "something" to happen to the country's financial position.

He said he is not sure what that something might be.

But he told the Commons that if earlier opposition attempts to unseat the minority Progressive Conservative government had succeeded, the reaction on the Canadian dollar and the foreign exchange reserves would have made "the storm of last June look like a summer shower."

Mr. Nowlan was referring to the June exchange crisis which led the government on June 24—six days after the last general election—to impose emergency financial measures by order-in-council, when Parliament was not in session.

The Liberal and New Democratic opposition claims that the government's subsequent failure to seek parliamentary approval for import surcharges violates the age-old right of Parliament—and Parliament alone—to impose taxes.

HIGHER SALES LEVY, LOTTERIES PROPOSED AS STREAMLINING DEVICES

'We Need Tax Harness That Permits the Economy to Run,' Says Dean

A three-part plan designed to give Canada a real position in the emerging economic world order was put forward by a former director of the World Bank here Tuesday night.

Dr. Neil Perry, a former Victorian who has held leading posts as economist in provincial, federal and international government levels said, in view of economic world developments such as the Common Market:

The federal government should adopt streamlined tax devices, including a larger sales tax and the lottery, to encourage domestic manufacturing industries.

Automation

Firms should be prepared to adopt a system of sweeping automation, even at the expense of laying off some of the labor force.

A "labor dollar" should be instituted as a form of federal wage subsidy to encourage firms to hire extra employees re-trained to keep abreast of latest techniques.

Dr. Perry, now dean of Commerce at UBC, told a meeting of the National Office Managers' Association at the Net Loft restaurant that Canadians failed to set goals for themselves "both in terms of our own national performance and in terms of our participation in the unfolding world order."

Canada is forced to follow the U.S. lead in bargaining with the emerging Common Market, for fear of being "left on the side lines," Dr. Perry said.

Modification

Resulting increased competitive pressure on Canadian manufacturers from imports could be offset by a modification of President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Bill. This contemplates readjustment allowances to help firms afflicted by foreign competition resulting from lowered tariffs, Dr. Perry said.

He supported the tax reduction on extra income earned by a company through sales and employment expansion embodied in the then finance minister Donald Fleming's last budget.

"Clearly, if we want Canadians to strive harder to raise the national income, we must be prepared to let them take home most of that extra slice of income," Dr. Perry said.

Aid Hospitals

I suggest this means using tax devices that have frequently been labelled by derogatory titles — as the sales tax and lotteries usually are," he said.

(Later Dr. Perry told a reporter that such lotteries as those urged legalized by the provincial government of Quebec in repeated representations to Ottawa would take the form of social welfare schemes, to benefit hospitals and other charities.

"Of course this presupposes agreement between the federal and provincial levels of government, which as yet we have not been able to get. But it will come in the end," he added.)

EASILY DONE

Amendment to the B.C. Liquor Act would involve no more than a re-definition of the word "minor" as used in the act.

Many students feel that lowering the legal age would virtually eliminate the student drinking problem that has incurred the displeasure of Victoria College's administration lately.

Tied in with the liquor question is the problem of student discipline.

Having taken on the chore of disciplining students for minor offences, the governing students' council is seeking to set up an impartial tribunal to handle cases as they arise.

Suggestions made by a student commission on discipline included plans for a seven-man tribunal whose membership would be different for each case, selected at random out of the student body.

Soonest the new plan could go into effect—if approved by the students—would be in the post-Christmas term.

Growing Load'

"We need a tax harness that permits the economy to run, even if it means running with a growing load of public services," he told the meeting.

The second part of Dr. Perry's suggested plan was the acceptance of automation "where this clearly fits the circumstances."

"In some cases," he added.

PANHANDLERS 'INVADE' ROCKLAND AVE.

Ad. Geoffrey Edgeway today called for a crackdown on panhandling in residential districts.

"I saw a bum panhandling a woman on Rockland Avenue right near Government House yesterday," he said.

"That sort of thing should be nipped in the bud."

"It's bad enough when there are a lot of bums on downtown streets but I realize every city has a certain amount of that."

"We should not let them invade the residential areas where they can upset housewives and make them nervous and afraid of muggings."

Ald. Edgeway said he had notified Mayor R. B. Wilson of the incident and also would see Police Chief John Blackstock.

Thieves Fail In Safe Try At City Plant

Would-be thieves who broke into Goodwill Bottling Ltd., 35 Erie, overnight, got little after hammering away at a cement safe.

Rear loading door at the southwest corner of the building and inside doors to the office had been forced.

The manager's and outer offices had been ransacked and $4 taken from a desk drawer.

The safe had been hammered, the deposit slot broken, and dial knocked off, but the main safe had not been breached.

A money bag containing $4.15 was missing from the deposit slot.

Hospital Not For Elderly Man In Cycle Spill

An elderly male cyclist taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital following an accident in Saanich Tuesday evening, signed himself out after treatment.

Charles A. Whitehead, 78, of 4591 West Saanich, was riding west about 5 p.m. in the 4500 block Wilkinson Road, when he was overtaken by a car driven by Mrs. Gwendolyn M. Berg, 4576 Wilkinson.

His bicycle ran into the ditch, hitting a concrete culvert, and throwing him over the handlebars. His head struck a blacktop driveway.

He was taken to hospital with face lacerations and possible concussion, but refused to stay after treatment.

Police said his bicycle was not equipped with reflectors nor lights. No action is pending.

mited, "there is nothing for it but to displace part of the existing work force."

But the displaced work must be re-trained to be brought abreast of newer techniques so that it may be re-hired.

As a further insurance that workers so displaced would be re-absorbed into industry, Dr. Perry presented a new device which he labelled the "labor dollar."

In effect a federal wage subsidy, the labor dollar would encourage manufacturers to hire extra employees.

Dr. Perry suggested firms would be able to buy the dollars from the Unemployment Insurance Agency at a discount. The discount naturally would be deeper as the unemployment situation worsened.

The firm then could hire

the re-trained workers, paying them at the going wage rate. Additional labor costs from hiring the extra workers would be lower by virtue of the subsidy through the labor dollars, Dr. Perry explained.

Pay Themselves

He added that it would be hoped workers eventually would be willing to pay themselves for their re-training.

Dr. Perry cautioned that his thesis only could be applied to healthy economy.

MONTE ROBERTS

If there is one thing I hate more than a doting parent who is forever talking about his child, it is a doting grandparent who is forever talking about his grandchild.

For this reason, I have carefully refrained from mentioning a certain young lady in this space for lo, these many months.

In fact, I do not believe I have mentioned this young lady since she was about half past three, although she is now at least a quarter past four.

SOME grandparents I know would have taken advantage of the space so kindly loaned me by the kindly management of this kindly newspaper, and they would have run a picture of their grandchild.

Just so you'll understand the restraint I have imposed upon myself, this is a picture of my granddaughter, Valerie Roberts by name, which I have bravely refrained from having printed in this space.)

I have also avoided (I do not wish to boast, but Truth Will Out) reporting various sage remarks, even her recent explanation of an attack of the hiccups:

"Don't worry, Mother; it's just that I have a drinking problem."

Or the answer to My Favorite Grandmother's query as to when Valerie was coming for another visit:

"Oh, some time next year, I guess. I am very busy. I have a lot of playing to do."

And I dutifully refrained to report (THIS took will power) on what Valerie said when she returned from a visit to the mainland.

Asked if she had had a nice holiday, the young lady said, more patiently than scornfully:

"I haven't been on a holiday; I just went to Vancouver."

But the bounds of restraint have broken. I simply MUST tell you about the young lady's first visit to Sunday School.

She looked forward to this event with keen anticipation, and arrived at St. Christopher's with great admonitions from her mother to be on her best behavior.

I understand that innocent bystanders that her best behavior was better than usual, that she put ten cents into the offering box with apparent equanimity, and paid attention (mostly) to what the Sunday School Teacher had to say.

Her behavior, in fact, was impeccable. Including her last conversational gambit, which occurred while she was being escorted from the premises.

Spying an official of the church who was obviously in a position of authority, she approached same and said, her voice all milk and honey:

"May I have my money back now, please?"

'Another Economic Crisis If We're Defeated Now'

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Nowlan expressed a fear, Tuesday night that any Canadian general election in the immediate future might cause "something" to happen to the country's financial position.

He said he is not sure what that something might be.

But he told the Commons that if earlier opposition attempts to unseat the minority Progressive Conservative government had succeeded, the position of the Canadian dollar and the foreign exchange reserves would have made "the storm of last June look like a summer shower."

Mr. Nowlan was referring to the June exchange crisis which led the government on June 24—six days after the last general election—to impose emergency financial measures by order-in-council, when Parliament was not in session.

BEFORE DEADLINE

Chinese Troops Stage Big Push

NEW DELHI (Thursday) (UPI) — Communist Chinese forces smashed through Indian defences and cut their way towards the rich plains of Assam as the cease-fire deadline passed without word that fighting had stopped today.

The Indian government announced that it had officially received the Chinese cease-fire proposals which were to become effective at midnight (8 a.m. PST). But a spokesman said: "Let us wait and see," declining to say whether the cease-fire already was in effect.

A Communist New China news agency dispatch broadcast by Peking radio and heard in Tokyo made no mention of the cease-fire. It did not indicate if any fighting continued after the deadline set by Peking.

The defence ministry here disclosed earlier that the Chinese troops had staged a breakthrough south of Bomdila in the western part of the North East Frontier Agency and were threatening the military headquarters city of Tezpur, where evacuation already was underway.

In the eastern part of the NEFA, Indian troops fell back 64 miles southwest through the Loh River valley from Wanglong towards Assam's Digboi oilfields in one day.

The Indians said their forces held fast in an exchange of fire around Chusul in Ladakh in the west, where the Chinese announced in a Peking radio broadcast that they had secured the entire Sino-Indian border.
